SEND HANNAH TO JAPAN

HELLO!

My name is Hannah Oh and I recently graduated from UC Berkeley and am now working full-time in the Bay Area.

This summer, I have the privilege of going on missions to Kobe, Japan from June 1 to July 4 with SOON Movement Global, a campus ministry that I have been involved in during college.

WHY MISSIONS?

Having started working full-time less than 6 months ago, I had assumed that it wouldn't be feasible to go on such a long mission trip. However, God has given me a heart for the people of Japan—the 2nd largest unreached people group with less than 2% of the population being Christian. Many of the students have never heard the good news of Jesus Christ that changed my life and gave me hope, and that is simply heartbreaking, which is why I am choosing to go.

During missions, we will be ministering to students on the college campuses of Kobe, visiting them daily to connect and engage in conversations, display the love of God through our interactions, and hopefully share the Gospel and connect them to a local church. We'll be supporting a local church and the organizations there, increasing the Christian presence on these campuses.

PARTNER WITH ME

As I prepare for this mission trip, each member needs to raise $5000 to cover the cost of living, travel, and ministry expenses while we are on the mission field. This is not a small sum, so I ask that you can prayerfully consider supporting me by donating and praying for our team as it draws near.

PRAYER

FOR JAPAN

that God would soften the hearts of the people to listen and hear the good news

FOR THE TEAM

that in the midst of the spiritual warfare, we would remain united in Christ and have a willing and available heart to serve God

FOR MF

that I may be rooted in my identity as a daughter of God as I step out in faith
